Washington, Feb. 28.—Convinced that half a dozen aspirants already are making cautious overtures to test their strength as Republican presidential possibilities for 1924, some of the friends of President Harding have begun work to assure him a re-nomination.

Thus far the movement on behalf of the President has not reached proportions of a closely knit organization, but it has progressed to a point where it promises to make itself felt in many states before long.

The attitude of Mr. Harding himself toward a second term remains unknown, but it is considered improbable that he will make any public statement of his intentions, at least in the near future.

There is quite general agreement among those in the inner circle of Washington politics, however, that a public statement of his stewardship will impel him to stand for re-election. It is upon this presumption, at any rate, that those who want to see him remain in the White House for another four years are proceeding. Included in the group at the conference here are some of the men who led the successful pre-convention campaign of 1920 and some who came over to the Harding ranks from other camps after the convention was over.

As a result of the ultimate line-up of the Harding forces of 1924 it is expected to resemble only in part the organization that fought and triumphed in the fight three years ago.

Attorney-General Daugherty, who was the pre-convention manager prior to 1920, is expected to take a hand in urging his re-nomination but for several reasons Mr. Daugherty is not expected by his friends to be as active as he was in 1920. His health recently failed him, requiring him to remain in bed for several weeks, and although he has recovered he is not expected to take the burden which would entail much traveling.

Several men who have been prominent in party affairs have been mentioned as available for the work of organization; Charles D. Hilles, former national chairman, is one of those considered but he has made no statement so far as to what part he would be willing to take in pre-convention work.

In the background lies the question of who is to manage the Republican campaign. Supporters of John L. Adams, the present chairman, say that they expect him to retain that post regardless of the results of the nominating convention. Discussion of the subject here recently has brought to life, however, an attempt by friends of Will H. Hayes, who managed the 1920 campaign to re-instate him in the chairmanship.

Cheney, multimillionaire, presented her with a gem cut from the Hope diamond. Financial reverses followed, wiping out their fortune. Julia Arthur returned to the stage undaunted and determined, her husband set to work anew in an effort to regain fortune. And they are far on the road to success.

—Both Sides Beginning

Results of This Session of the Legislature and to Draw Lines for Future Battles.

The political calendar is just as well filled as the legislative calendar as the assembly session nears the end.

With one political meeting completed over the week end, another was held last night, the Nonpartisan meet Friday and Saturday and the Democratic state committee meets Saturday.

In addition there is that elusive thing—a third party—flirting around on the current of political gossip. A lot of politicians would not be surprised at anything definite that may come up.

The call for the meeting of the Democratic state committee was dispatched, last night by Secretary Henry Holt of Grand Forks on the authority of Chairman G. S. Woolledge of Minot, according to word here. The Democrats will settle in the meeting whether or not the action of the state executive committee majority in opposing the non-political ballot election law will be sustained or repudiated.

Fifteen members of the state committee and all of the independent Democratic members of the legislature had signed a petition for the call.

Want Referendum

The Republican state executive committee, as controlled by the Nonpartisan League, met here last night with Chairman R. W. Frazier of the state committee. The majority of the committee was present and favors submission of the election laws to a vote of the people, Mr. Frazier said. They would be submitted at the November election in 1924.

If 7,000 petitioners ask a law be referred its effects is held up until after the vote, so that in case of an election the ballots will not be changed in the 1924 election.

BILL CHANGING LEGISLATIVE BOUNDS WINS

Reapportionment Measure
Passed by House Is Accepted in the Senate

REFUSE BANK CHANGE

Provision Only "Dirt Farmers" May Obtain State Loans Is Retained

The State Affairs committee of the house reconsidering three of the bills for revision of the regulatory laws of the state this afternoon was to recommend for passage the oil inspection, the pure food, and the beverages inspection acts.

The house reconsidered its action of last night when the bill to provide state cooperation with the federal government under the Sheppard-Towner Maternity act was defeated and this afternoon passed the bill.

Reapportionment of legislative representation among the counties of North Dakota became practically assured when the senate on a party vote approved for passage House Bill 412 the bill providing for such a redistribution of seats. The measure may be passed today.

The Nonpartisan League senators opposed the measure strongly. Ole Ettestad of McHenry county insisted that the measure should be held up until after the 1925 state census, and the reapportionment then be based on the results shown by that count.

Senator Byrne attacked the proposed law on the basis of unfairness declaring that on the basis of votes cast his district of McKenzie and Williams county had more right to demand division into two districts than has Stutsman county which is one of the districts slated for division if the law passes.

The majority report of the committee on elections was finally accepted, and the bill will be on the calendar.

Resolution Dies

The Nathan resolution, designed to permit farm owners not actually residing on the land to obtain loans from the Bank of North Dakota, and also to compel the officials of the farm loan department to remove restrictions on farm loans based on the products of the farms in question was killed after a brief debate, the vote again being along party lines.

It was at this time that Senator Baker, Nonpartisan, clashed with Lt. Gov. Frank Hyland. Following the "aye" and "no" vote the lieutenant-governor, as presiding officer, had declared himself to be in doubt as to the result and started to call for a division.

"Let's have a roll call, what do you want to waste time on a division for?" called out the senator from Renville.

"Bang went the gavel. 'Will the senator from Renville kindly allow me to finish what I was about to say?' inquired Mr. Hyland.

The lieutenant-governor stated the question, counted the votes, and announced the result. "And from this time on I want it understood that I'm the presiding officer of this senate," he concluded.

The senate passed a big list of bills, including a number of house appropriation measures, and the concurrent resolutions introduced Monday afternoon by Senator Porter and Rusch.

Pass Tabert Resolution

The Porter resolution calls for a searching probe by the state of Florida into the death of a convict labor camp of Martin Tabert, formerly of Cavalier county. The resolution was reported to the passage by the senate committee on federal relations and unanimously passed.

Sensor Rusch's resolution calls for an investigation by the Governor to decide whether or not an efficiency expert should be called in to determine how efficiently and economically the state departments are being run.

The increase of the real estate loan bonds of the state to twenty-five million dollars went through sailing, although with several amendments, which must now be acted on by the house. Senator Walter Bond, Independent, and Senator B. F. Baker, Nonpartisan, the leading members of the two factions on the committee on banks and banking both spoke in favor of the measure.

NAMES CRESSINGER TO HEAD FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD

Washington, Feb. 28.—The nomination of D. R. Cressinger, comptroller of the currency, to be Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, was reported favorably today by the senate banking committee but action was deferred on the nomination of James J. McNary, southwestern banker, to succeed Mr. Cressinger as comptroller.

Dwight Davis of Missouri, a director of the war finance corporation was nominated to be assistant secretary of war in place of John M. Wainwright, who leaves office March 4 to become a member of the next congress.

The president named W. Mondell, republican floor leader of the present house, to succeed Mr. Davis as director of the War Finance Corporation. Horace M. Towner of Iowa for years a republican leader in the house of representatives was nominated today to succeed Monts Reilly as governor of Porto Rico.

ROAD SYSTEM PLAN KILLED IN THE HOUSE

Bills Advocated by North Dakota Good Roads Association Die

CLASHES OCCUR

Solons in Brush Over Guaranty Fund and Other Measures in House

There is grave danger of North Dakota losing federal aid in road-building through defeat of the good roads association program bills in the house of representatives, President I. J. Moe of the North Dakota Good Roads Association, declared here before leaving for his home in Valley City.

North Dakota has been getting federal aid on the understanding that proper legislation would be taken in North Dakota, he said. The constitutional amendment proposed, creating a system of state highways under exclusive control of a highway body, could not be voted on before 1923, and unless submitted on petition North Dakota will be unable to comply with the federal road act, he declared.

The federal act provides no state aid will be given after 1926 unless the state has a highway system, for which the state as a unit, not the counties, provides funds.

The whole subject will be canvassed at the annual meeting of the good roads association here on March 15, he said.

The program advocated by the North Dakota Good Roads Association for creation of a permanent state highways system in North Dakota was killed in the house of representatives yesterday afternoon.

The state highway commission, unless appropriations are denied, will continue to function as at present, and will be constituted under exclusive control of the state. Federal aid roads may be built with the county paying half and the federal government paying half the cost, unless there is adverse ruling from the U. S. Bureau of Good Roads because of action of the legislature.

Three bills—senate bills No. 44, 45 and 46—were put to sleep in the lower house on committee report. There was divided report of the highways committee on only senate bill No. 44, which called for the appointment of a new highway commission of three appointive members, eliminating the Governor and Commissioner of Agriculture who now are members; providing for a county seat to county seat system of state highways, commission six years each, and separating the positions of state engineer and chief engineer of the highway commission.

The majority on this bill was for indefinite postponement, and the minority for passage. The majority report prevailed, 66 to 26, with virtually no debate, the whole question having been threshed out before.

"Rider" Dies

Senate bill No. 46 provided for submission to vote of the people a constitutional amendment establishing permanently a system of state highways. The committee report was unanimous. It also agreed on senate bill No. 45, introduced in the senate to provide for payment of all motor vehicle license fees to the state highway commission. It was amended by the senate to carry a "rider" designating the highway commission.

Washington, Feb. 28.—Postmaster General Harding recommended to President Harding today that selection of postmasters should no longer be considered a political prerogative of senators and representatives but should be vested in the postoffice department alone.

At the same time the Postmaster General, who retired from his present position on March 4, to become Secretary of the Interior, recommended that present regulations requiring examination of postoffice candidates by the Civil Service Commission be abandoned.

The postoffice department is a strictly business organization and it ought to be aided in putting the right men in the right place, as any private business concern would endeavor to do for its own advancement, and not be handicapped either by political considerations or by the restrictions entailed in the present plan requiring examination by the Civil Service Commission which it does not even give Civil Service status.

Forty-one Persons Called Before Twelve Are Obtained To Try Case

The state began weaving its chain of evidence in the Kasimir Schneider murder trial in district court here today, starting out from the first to draw it tightly around Schneider so that no reasonable doubt would be left in the mind of the twelve jurors sitting in the case. At the preliminary hearing the evidence of the state was chiefly circumstantial, and the prosecutors have not divulged any further testimony that they may offer at the trial now before Judge Jansons.

The jury was sequestered after two days, during which the panel of 30 regular talesmen was exhausted, and a special call for five more was necessary. The selection of the jury being concluded last night, taking of evidence began today.

The court room was crowded this morning when former Coroner H. J. Strolke took the stand as the first witness, many of the spectators being neighbors of the Schneider south side home, where his wife died early last June.

Tells of Call

Coroner Strolke described his call to the house after her death, his decision to order an autopsy because no physician was present when she died, and the acts taken to this end and the sending of the stomach to the state laboratory at Grand Forks for analysis.

Dr. G. R. Lipp was the second witness on the stand. He was questioned. (Continued on Page Three.)

Resolutions committing the Association of Commerce to a policy along the lines of better farming and land settlement in Burleigh county were adopted at the February Forum Dinner of the association at the Grand Pacific Hotel last evening. O. N. Dunham proposed the resolutions which were adopted without dissent. They express the purpose of the Association of Commerce to get back of the Bismarck Immigration Association in their efforts to put more people on Burleigh county lands and to assist in diversification of farming.

Cavalier County Residents Parents of Boy Who Suffered Under System

Tulsa, Okla., Feb. 28.—The death of Martin Tabert of Minn. N. D. at the camp of Putnam Lumber Camp early in 1922 will be made the subject of a grand jury investigation the latter part of March it was stated at the governor's office.

Gov. Harter, several months ago forwarded to the circuit court of appeals of Perry county, documentary evidence of Tabert's death gathered by an attorney who was sent to Florida as representative of the North Dakota government.

The executive would not go into the nature of the evidence.

Tabert, a youngster viewing the world "from an outdoor pulpit" was convicted in county court here in Dec. 15, 1921, on a charge of vagrancy and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve a month in prison.

Subsequently he was leased to the Putnam Lumber company at Perry, Florida. He died Feb. 1, and a report made by lumber company under date of Feb. 3 gave the cause as fever "and other complications." His relatives were not known, the report said, and the lumber buried him at Perry.

Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. McRae, recently cited the boy's death as another indication against the system of leasing county convicts. He has made known that he would again go before the legislature and urge that the practice be abolished.

Gov. Harter, too, has expressed "the hope" that the legislature would do away with it.

Local attorneys representing the family of Tabert have announced that they will enter suit against the company growing out of his death.

(By the Associated Press.)
Minneapolis, Feb. 28.—The volume of business in the Northwest during January measured by bank reports was one-third larger than that of a year ago, according to the monthly report of the Ninth District Federal Reserve agent made today.

Regional business declines were less than they had been for four years, January business being only five per cent less than December.

Livestock continued to move in much larger volume than normal, the report stated, adding that the heavy movement of hogs and calves reflects the profitable utilization of feed corn and the development of dairying.

Resolutions committing the Association of Commerce to a policy along the lines of better farming and land settlement in Burleigh county were adopted at the February Forum Dinner of the association at the Grand Pacific Hotel last evening. O. N. Dunham proposed the resolutions which were adopted without dissent. They express the purpose of the Association of Commerce to get back of the Bismarck Immigration Association in their efforts to put more people on Burleigh county lands and to assist in diversification of farming.

Some convincing data was given by the various speakers showing the rapid progress that is being made in dairying in this section and the adaptability of Burleigh county lands to the production of corn.

GRAND JURY WILL PROBE TABERT DEATH

Starts Move Before Florida
Legislature to Abolish
Farming Out Convict Labor

LUMBER CO. SUED
Cavalier County Residents
Parents of Boy Who Suffered Under System

Tallahassee, Fla., Feb. 28.—The death of Martin Tabert of Munich, N. D., at the camp of Putnam Lumber Camp early in 1922 will be made the subject of a grand jury investigation the latter part of March it was stated at the governor's office.

Gov. Hardee several months ago forwarded to the circuit court officials of Perry county, documentary evidence of Tabert's death gathered by an attorney who was sent to Florida as representative of the North Dakota government.

The executive would not go into the nature of the evidence. Tabert, a youngster viewing the world "from an outdoor pullman" was convicted in county court here in Dec. 15, 1921, on a charge of vagrancy and sentenced to pay a fine of $25 or serve a month in prison.

Subsequently he was leased to the Putnam Lumber company at Perry, Florida. He died Feb. 1, and a report made by lumber company under date of Feb. 3 gave the cause as fever "and other complications." His relatives were not known, the report said, and the lumber buried him at Perry.

Commissioner of Agriculture W. A. McRae, recently cited the boy's death as another indication against the system of leasing county convicts. He has made known that he would again go before the legislature and urge that the practice be abolished.

Gov. Hardee, too, has expressed "the hope" that the legislature would do away with it. Local attorneys representing the family of Tabert have announced that they will enter suit against the company growing out of his death.

Better Era in Sight
"On all sides," he said, "there is an indication of a better era for North Dakota. This is reflected significantly in the figures on dairying. On Jan. 1, there were 19,000 more cows on North Dakota farms than a year ago. Cream shipments over the Northern Pacific line system in this state for 1922 amounted to 5,226,050 gallons."

Land Settlement Better Term
"I don't like the term immigration," he said. That means going to Europe and getting a lot of people together and bringing them out west and dumping them upon the ground. I like to regard the problem more as land settlement. Selling them a home and service. In its broader aspects it means too better farming. Putting people on your lands who have the ability to succeed. The businessman has a great responsibility in this matter. A railroad by its efforts can get the settler into your midst but you must sell him your community. The old boom literature will not get settlers any more. He has changed. He is not merely seeking land in a speculative mood. He is an investigator. When he comes into a community he is going to size you and your district up thoroughly and unless you sell him yourself and your service he is going elsewhere. It is a home that he is looking for where he can earn a legitimate return upon his labor and his capital and rear his children amid the proper environment. There must be something in your service (Continued on page 3.)

SELECTION OF JURY PROCEEDS VERY SLOWLY

Schneider Murder Trial Jury May Not be Obtained Before Evening

Selection of the jury to try the case of Kasimir Schneider, charged with the murder of his wife by poison, proceeded slowly in district court here today, and it appeared as though that the entire day would be consumed before twelve jurors had been accepted by both sides for the trial.

The courtroom was crowded at the morning session, many of the spectators being neighbors of Schneider, but the spectators were disappointed in that the proceedings were devoted chiefly to questioning of jurors.

P. D. Norton, attorney for the defense, questioned the jurors particularly as to their views in accepting circumstantial evidence for conviction of a person on trial for the crime of murder. He also asked the question as to whether or not the fact that the defendant did not go on the witness stand himself would prejudice the juror against his case.

States Attorney Allen also emphasized questions concerning the juror's views of the force of circumstantial evidence and whether or not a verdict would be returned on the basis of such evidence, unless there were a reasonable doubt existing.

The evidence against Schneider, as brought out in the preliminary hearing, was chiefly circumstantial. An analysis of the stomach of Mrs. Schneider after her death showed arsenic poisoning, chemists testified.

Mrs. W. H. Bodenstedt, one of the jurors called, was excused.

The senator replied with the quick retort which has attracted some attention on the floor of the senate, and offered to exchange cards. To this the stranger left the car with Senator Caraway in pursuit.

PEOPLE'S FORUM

A MOTHER'S VIEWPOINT

Editor Bismarck Tribune:

During the past two weeks a number of articles have appeared in your valuable publication dealing with the question as to whether or not married women should continue to work in public offices in this state.

This question is a very serious one and goes back farther than casual observer usually considers. The Bill which was introduced during the present Legislative Assembly, prohibiting the employment of married women, whose husbands are able to earn a living was one of the best measures introduced during this session, and it should have become a law. A law of this kind would have a wholesome effect on the institution we call our home.

Let me ask, can a wife work in an office and still function as a mother of unborn generations? She can not and when she works out she has no time nor inclination to raise a family. She shifts her duty to the Nation and to mankind.

We have been taught to believe that wife-hood is expected to be followed by mother-hood, but if we read the article written by one who signs himself "An Employer" it seems that marriage is for an entire different purpose, and that married women are required to keep up the efficiency in public offices.

About two years ago the local School Board notified the married teachers that their services were no longer required in the schools. Have our local schools suffered in efficiency because married women are no longer on the teaching staff? No, not one bit. The School Board is to be congratulated for their foresight.

What is the situation in our public offices today? The very flower of our womanhood is being employed, married women who should carry out the important functions, such as becoming mothers of our future citizens and making a home what it should be.

But when many young married women are induced to work, it is but natural that they prefer to see propaganda carried out by the class that is less able financially mentally.

What effect has this on the home? Let us refer to an article published by Judge Lindsay of the New York Court of Domestic Relations. Judge Lindsay says that Economic independence of women is one of the principal reasons for the divorce rate; there being about two marriages to one divorce, not

CITY NATIONAL BANK

BISMARCK, NO. DAKOTA

BANKING COMMITTEE HEAD HITS MINORITY IN HOUSE FOR ACTION IN OPPOSING BANK MEASURE

Rep. Carr Declares that Guaranty Fund Commission, if Responsible for All State Banks, Ought to Have Something to Say About the Way They Are Conducted.

BILL IS ADVANCED

RESOLUTION FAILS.
There will be no constitutional amendment submitted to the people providing for a $7,500,000 bond issue to pay off depositors of closed banks. The resolution failed in the house Monday night. An effort was made to reconsider it late yesterday. It failed. The "climber motion" then was applied, preventing further reconsideration.

Severe criticism of the Nonpartisan minority in the house of representatives for opposing senate bill changing the powers of the Guaranty Fund Commission to deal with banks, was voiced by Rep. John Carr, chairman of the house banking committee, during debate on the measure, in which the house defeated efforts to kill the bill by a vote of 57 to 53, advanced it to general orders.

Explaining the bill, on which there was a divided report, Rep. Carr said that it substituted the manager of the Bank of North Dakota for the state examiner on the Guaranty Fund Commission, the purpose being so that the state examiner would not be in the position of reviewing his own acts; permits the Guaranty Fund Commission to employ inspectors of banks, provides that if the state examiner finds a bank is insolvent the bank may be kept open under requirements protecting depositors received after order has been issued by the examiner, prohibits banks from advertising their deposits are guaranteed by the state of North Dakota, provides any bank organized shall pay three per cent of its capital, instead of two per cent, into the Guaranty Fund; defines definitely what deposits shall come under the guaranty act.

This is a bill everyone should support, Mr. Carr said. If you are going to have a guaranty fund law and make the fund responsible for the acts of all the bankers of the state, the commission ought to have something to say about how the banks are run. I am unable to understand the action of the minority in opposing such a measure as this.

Albion There, She Says.

Mrs. Minnie Craig pointed out what she said were meaningless sections in the act.

"There are at least three sections which are callous for past failures in supervision of banks," she said. She criticized the guaranty fund commission, saying it had placed deposits in banks which closed after the deposits were placed in them.

Rep. Maddock, Nonpartisan, said that at present the state examiner adopted the policy of allowing some banks to remain open under special restrictions, such as is proposed in the bill, and that "the bank examiner is doing some good work along this line."

Rep. Twichell replied there was no authority in law for this, and the bill proposed to meet the situation.

"It is ridiculous that any one should oppose this law," declared Rep. Twichell. "Why shouldn't the men who are obligated have something to say whether they are going to be obligated further?"

Rep. Patterson, Nonpartisan, declared "this is a dangerous bill." He asserted it gave the board power to take money collected from various banks and use the money to keep other banks open "and make a record for this administration."

Second Bill In.
Senate bill No. 257, reported in immediately following, went to general orders without debate. It relates to the administration of insolvent banks to clear up present conditions as to winding up affairs of closed banks, gives the supreme court jurisdiction in liquidation proceedings, creates the position of supreme court commissioner and provides for the appointment of receivers.

Rep. Carr, explaining the bill, said "it is, I believe, a well known fact that closed banks are being given little attention by many receivers. The purpose of the act is to place the administration of closed banks under one head, and is in the interest of 25,000 to 30,000 depositors."

He said cases of conflict of authority in existing law in appointment of receivers had led to difficulties in closed banks which had caused unsatisfactory conditions to all concerned.

Rep. Carr, explaining the bill, said "it is, I believe, a well known fact that closed banks are being given little attention by many receivers. The purpose of the act is to place the administration of closed banks under one head, and is in the interest of 25,000 to 30,000 depositors."

HOUSE TURNS DOWN SENATE MANDAN ITEM

Refuses to Concur in Appropriation Bill Providing For Dormitory

ACTION OPPOSED

The house of representatives last night rejected an effort to increase the appropriation for the state training school at Mandan.

In the afternoon the senate appropriated $326,510 for the maintenance of the State Training school at Mandan. The appropriation included $30,000 additional to that allowed by the house and passed earlier by that body. The extra sum was deemed necessary to the care of the girls in the institution and for the purpose of building a new girls' dormitory.

The house appropriation included a $60,000 allowance for the construction of a new boys' dormitory. The appropriations committee of the senate deemed the girls' building absolutely necessary and upon the appeal of Senator Martin was included in the senate amended measure.

Last night the bill went back to the house. William Watt of Cass county, chairman of the appropriations committee opposed the appropriation. He moved that the senate do not concur in the senate amendment adding the $30,000.

"I don't believe that we should legitimate that appropriation," said Mrs. Minnie Craig, Nonpartisan of Benson county. "The conditions at the school are terrible and the girls must be provided with proper buildings."

Rep. Watt moved the house not concur, which action prevailed. Conference committees were named. It was understood that in the senate there had been a tacit understanding that Morton county representatives, deeming the provision of adequate housing for girls at the training school more important than the Missouri Slope Fair, were willing to accept a slash on the latter appropriation if the housing situation at the training school were met.

Novelty of Honeymoon Gone For Kaiser

Doorn, Feb. 28.—The honeymoon of William and Hermine has at last come to end, in the opinion of the inhabitants of Doorn. The pleasant walks arm in arm along the solitary roads of the village, under the protection of a captain of the Dutch gendarmerie, ended abruptly several days ago. The disappearance of the couple from the village streets gave rise to numerous rumors to the effect that the former emperor was seriously ill, or that an attempt had been made upon his life, but investigation has failed to show any authority for either statement.

For about three weeks it has been reported that deep discord existed between the couple. One reason assigned was that William bore with difficulty the dictatorial tone of his wife who insisted that at the castle every one including himself should act and conduct himself according to her ideas. Hence Hermine has been in constant hot water, for her attitude was resented. Nevertheless both Hermine and her daughter were both present at a dinner given on the occasion of William's anniversary.

In spite of the evident tension, it is not believed that a rupture is imminent. Hermine's children are still living with their old nurse in the building at the entrance to the park, and Hermine occupies her apartment in the chateau not far from that of her husband.

This fact, however, seems to be established. Since his marriage William has become thinner and appears much older. All who have seen him during the past few days remark how ill he is looking and how feebly he walks.

SWEDEN HAS UNIQUE PLAN OF STATE LOANS

Stockholm, Feb. 28.—By a unique system of state loans to persons who desire to establish their own homes, the government of Sweden has contributed 120,000,000 crowns or $32,000,000 to the building of a total of 30,000 homes since 1905, according to calculations made by the Swedish Department of Agriculture.

The "egna home," literally "own home," movement in Sweden has proved a blessing in enabling young people, and others with limited means, to settle on small farms and to erect cozy dwelling through the help of money loaned at low interest and on easy terms of repayment.

Several thousand city homes also have been acquired through the same plan. While the money is loaned by the government, the actual administration of funds is done by associations organized for this purpose, which are responsible for interest payments and amortization.

It is reported that the money thus invested by the government has not only been of immense value in establishing social solidarity and contentment in Sweden, but has also brought good economic results through the rise in real estate values since the years before the war.

Both Winter and Summer—451 Makes of Cars

POLARINE lubricates perfectly — in cold weather and in hot — 451 different makes of passenger cars, trucks and tractors. No matter how extreme the change of temperature — the grade of Polarine indicated in the Chart will remain of the right viscosity. It will spread rapidly. It will form a perfect film between the moving frictional surfaces. It will insure long life to the bearings; complete protection to piston and cylinder.

Changing to Polarine has saved many a motorist hundreds of dollars a year in repair bills. Yet Polarine costs little, if any, more than the lubricant you are using now.

Use Polarine THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL Made in Five Grades

It outstrips any lubricant on the market in maintaining its body through any extreme of temperature. Its elasticity and adhesiveness cause a perfect seal and complete lubrication at all motor speeds and temperatures.

Don't fool yourself into fancied security, by thinking, "Oh, the oil I'm using works all right—why bother to change? It's just as good!" There is no "just as good," or even "second best" lubrication. There is one right lubricant for your car. It is specified in the Chart. When you do not use this lubricant, you fail to get the maximum of economy, efficiency and saving of wear on your engine. Change your motor oil every 500 miles—it is the essence of economy.

Remember the resources — the experience — the scientific experts of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are behind every gallon of Polarine sold. This means maintained quality — at all seasons, in all temperatures — and everywhere throughout 10 Middle Western States.

G. N. EXTENSION TALK REVIVES

Proposition was to Continue East from Watford City

Watford City, N. D., Feb. 28.—Interest in a proposed extension of the Great Northern railroad from Watford City eastward, on which work has been begun about 10 years ago, has been revived by the beginning of the work of hauling here for shipment elsewhere of old material left on the abandoned grade along the Little Missouri river about 20 miles southeast of here. Ole Erickson, who was constructing the grade for A. Guthrie & Co. of St. Paul, when the work was discontinued, is in charge of the removal work, which is being done with teams and sleighs while the sleighing is good.

The material consists of a large quantity of steel rails, dump cars, three dinky engines a large steam shovel, and so on. There will be about 40 carloads of it, it is stated.

Mr. Erickson states that the shipping of the material now does not indicate that the construction of the line between Rockford and the present right-of-way would be indefinitely postponed. The material, he states, is obsolete, and if the railroad construction work were to be resumed, new material would have to be shipped in, in any event.

According to Mr. Erickson, the grade, except where it has been cut by an occasional watercourse, is in as good condition as when it was constructed several years ago. The greater part of the grade down the Little Missouri river to the Missouri river, a distance of about 50 miles, is complete. Most of the work on a large tunnel has been done, and practically all that remains to complete the line from Watford City to the Missouri river is the completion of the tunnel, the construction of a few small bridges and several changes on the Little Missouri river.

STATE BEGINS EVIDENCE IN MURDER CASE

ed at length by State's Attorney Allen concerning the circumstances leading up to the death of Amelia Schneider, so far as he knew of them, the autopsy and conversations with Schneider. His testimony took up most of the morning session.

Dr. Lipp said he had been called to the Schneider home in May to see the body, and that he had given Mrs. Schneider medicine on April 28, more than a month before her death.

Mrs. Schneider, he said, had suffered spells from cramps in the abdomen and stomach, that he had given her medicine, gave instructions to Schneider as to giving her medicine when she was absent, told what diet she should have, and asked Schneider to call when she was having one of her spells so that he could better direct the case.

"Did you from your examination think Amelia Schneider was very sick?" he was asked.

"No sir," he replied.

Dr. Lipp then said the illness was not regarded as serious or one likely to cause her to die, that her body was not wasted but in good condition. He also said he had never told Schneider that his wife was seriously ill.

Found Woman Dead.

Dr. Lipp told of his call there on the morning of June 13, 1922, the call coming from Mr. Bob, who told him over the phone he believed his wife was dead and asked whether Mrs. Schneider was dead or merely unconscious.

Dr. Lipp said he found her in bed, with her arms folded across her chest. He examined her to see if she was dead, using a stethoscope, examined her pulse, examined her to see if any heat were in the body or whether it was cold. Rigor had already set in, he said, and he judged she had been dead about two hours. It is possible, he said, to tell approximately how long a person has been dead by the extent of the rigor and heat or absence of heat in the body.

Asked if he had talked to Schneider, he said he had asked Schneider why he had not been called before, Schneider replied that he called as soon as he could, Dr. Lipp testified.

"He said he did not know she was sick enough for a doctor," Dr. Lipp said.

Dr. Lipp suggested that the coroner be called, he said. The coroner ordered an autopsy which was conducted by Dr. Larson and Dr. Lipp at the undertaking parlors. After the stomach was removed, it was sent to the laboratory for examination.

Professor Here.

Dr. Abbot, of the University at Grand Forks, is here and will be called by the state to testify as to the amount of poison found in the stomach. At the preliminary hearing some months ago he said sufficient arsenic was found to cause death. The state's attorney included John P. Sullivan of Mandan, special assistant as representative of Mrs. Schneider's relatives, who live west of the river, and Charles Simons, assistant attorney general.

P. D. Norton and C. F. Kelsch, attorneys for the defense, have not divulged their plan of defense, but will outline their case when the state has finished presentation of its evidence. This may require two more days.

The twelve jurors hearing the case are: R. Brown, P. E. Hatch, Robb M. Welch, J. C. Carey, Lester Larson, A. C. Small, John Hoffman, Arthur L. Small, Ralph Turner, D. J. Geary, J. A. Davis and S. E. Register.

BILL CHANGING LEGISLATIVE BOUNDS WINS

over the passage of House Bill 124 which appropriates $2,000 to pay for the audit of the state industries made by Bishop Brissman and Company in 1921.

Nonpartisan League members opposed the passage of the measure and attempted to introduce amendments to cut down the amount of the appropriation. It finally passed on a strict party vote.

"I vote 'aye' on this measure because I think it is the best investment the state ever made," said Senator J. E. Stevens of Ramsey county in explaining his vote. "It is another case of bread being cast upon the waters and returning to us."

There was another fight over House Bill 69 which provides for disabled or illiterate voters to be assisted in marking their ballots. Senator Storstad of Cass county attempted to amend the bill so as to make it apply to disabled voters only. Senator Hamilton wanted to know if the amendment would prevent illiterate voters from casting their ballots. "Not if they can mark them," answered Senator Storstad.

Are Aroused.

"Senator Engstrom of Grand Forks jumped into the fight at this point with the declaration that no man who was not able to read and write the English language should be allowed to vote in any case. This aroused the ire of Senator Nathan of Burleigh county and there was a warm interchange. The amendment was finally lost.

A fight for the indefinite postponement of the bill followed. It was led by Senator Sted of Stanislaus county who declared that it destroyed the secrecy of the ballot. The measure was finally passed however.

Diversification Key-note of Big Forum On Settlement

to attract him and if there is not he will move on to some other place. "One of the most hopeful signs of the times is the development of the dairy interests. The Soo has about 1,500 miles of road in that rich dairy state, Wisconsin. Last year we hauled out 30,000 good grade dairy stock to other states.

Increasing Stock. These came to North Dakota. To put it more graphically, in Wisconsin for instance every time the clock ticks, the dairy cow drops $7.50 into the pockets of the farmers of that state. It means cash, hard money of the realm every day. There were only two bank failures in the state.

"I regret to state that the movement to the land has not been as rapid as in the past. The free and arched homestead areas have gone. The lure of the land has passed away. Now has come a more definite and orderly and slower process. Many have left the farms. There had been a falling off in the farm population and the problem becomes more vital and calls for more resourcefulness than in the days of free lands. Canada to the north is an active competitor. The western provinces have raised more than a million-and-a-half to procure settlers and they are being placed on land and given 34 years to pay for it.

"In this country we are too prone to think the farmer needs all sorts of legislation to increase his borrowing power. What he really needs is the development of some system that will give him a better return and enable him to pay the debts he has already contracted.

Pioneer in Movement.

In introducing Dr. Worst, state immigration commissioner, Judge Christensen paid him a fine tribute stating that eighteen years ago he heard Dr. Worst advance many of the theories of land settlement and agriculture that had been advanced by the other speakers of the evening.

Dr. Worst said that the securing of settlers was a slow process and that it usually was two years before the field work began to show results. He urged a closer social as well as business union between the country and cities. He said that when farmers moved into a community they should be drawn into the social life of the city too and be made to feel at home for after all it was a home that they were creating.

Room For More.

He declared that there were from twelve to fifteen million acres not under cultivation and that the state easily could support two million population without much additional tax-load. He declared that the increase of population was the only hope to lighten the tax load in this state which was carrying an overhead almost sufficient to serve a two million population with only an actual population of slightly more than three quarters of a million.

D. T. Owens, local rector, gave some startling figures as to the relative yields of corn and wheat in this state. He spoke of the success made in raising corn in the southern area he said the state was a failure and that the only hope was to get into corn, dairying and stock generally. He asked for greater cooperation between the businessman and the rector who is busy seeking more people. He declared that Bismarck could never grow until the county had more and better farmers.

Contrasts Values.

J. P. Jackson, local land man, contrasted the value of the wheat and corn crop in the state showing conclusively why more corn should be raised. Each year, he indicated by statistics the corn crop was better, yet the wheat crop was better, and he urged a greater drive for settlers—and the diversification of agriculture.

A Ditt Farmer.

Jack Davies of Wing made a real hit by telling how he came to Burleigh county in 1903 and through fair and foul weather stood by his guns until he had brought success from initial failure. He exposed vigorously the crop pyramid plan, said that if the settlers could be gotten on the land allowed to pay only 5 percent interest and keep up the taxes, it would be great inducement for him to work out his salvation.

He declared the county agent should work directly with the farmers. Fine speeches and banquets, he said were alright in their way but they did not bring about better conditions. The farmer he said must have the hearty cooperation but that the subsidy or public pay could take the place of hard work and earnest endeavor. He declared that he was going to show the farmers—in his region that a quarter section could support 100 head of stock. He was going into the growing of feed grain and grasses and showed that could be done in good old Burleigh with hogs, dairies, poultry, etc.

"Jack" Davies has made good in the county and his experience, it was urged, was typical of others and that there are enough instances of good returns from Burleigh land to attract settlers if only the proper organization and steam is gotten behind a better farming and more settlers movement.

E. E. Young asked the businessmen to aid the landmen by eternally pointing the locality and not the land.

The successful forum was in charge of the Association of Commerce in cooperation with the Bismarck Immigration Association. The following committee directed the affair: Overt, A. Olson, D. T. Owens, E. E. Young, Henry Halverson led the community singing.

Among the out-of-town guests were the following: Henry Wolfgram, Sterling, George Lewis, Sterling; Presley Bosney, Sterling; L. D. Bailey, Moffit; Percy Bliss, McKenzie; Harry Higgins, Baldwin; George Anderson, Wing; Jack Davies, Wing; E. C. Ruble, Driscoll; Mr. Barsley and Mr. Carlson of Wing; Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Ohl, Britton; William Van Horn, Driscoll; W. T. Knowles, Wing.

Majority Position.

Rep. Twichell, taking the position the league members were opposing the bill on political grounds with a view to moving embargoes to Government Nestos and the administration declared that "it looks as if the minority wants us to fail as badly in the milling business as they failed."

The house killed the Baird senate resolution calling on the Workmen's Compensation Bureau to decrease its rates fifty percent. It adopted the resolution of Senator Frazier, the War Department to give one Fort Lincoln building to the North Dakota tuberculosis Association to be used as a hospital for tubercular children.

Rep. Watt announced the appropriations committee had inserted in a bill an appropriation of $5,000 to enable Ugnite experiments to be continued at Heggen.

Attacks U. S. Act.

Rep. Jackson, Ramsey county, attacked the federal Sheppard-Towner maternity act on consideration of senate bill No. 56, providing a state appropriation of $2,000 to meet a like federal appropriation.

The Sheppard-Towner act, he declared, "is to my mind the most iniquitous, socialistic, un-American law ever put on the federal statute books. If you believe that mothers ought to be required to submit to examination on the order of a government bureau during the delicate condition of pregnancy, vote for this bill. But I hope North Dakota will follow the lead of Maine, the first state to vote on acceptance of the act, and refuse to accept it."

The vote was 46 for the bill and 47 against. Before the "clinch" motion could be applied a motion to recess prevailed. A motion will be made to reconsider the bill.

The proposal to cut the present 3 cent flat average tax for the hail insurance fund to one cent an acre was again before the house of representatives. The amendment was placed on although political lines, although the good roads men expected the administration to put over the program, since Governor Nestos and others had endorsed it.

The appropriations will probably be as big as in 1921, if not larger, and independents may drop the economy issue, but believe their tax program, especially the income tax bill, will be of great political value.

ISSUES CALL.

Grand Forks, Feb. 28.—A call was issued here for a meeting of the Democratic state central committee at Bismarck on March 3, by Secretary Henry Holt.

FEW BILLS CAN BE PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, Feb. 28.—Republican house leaders were determined, if possible, to push the farm credit legislation to a vote today. The measure was side-tracked yesterday for a conference report on the national bank tax bill which led to a five-hour fight and further heightened the legislative jam in the house.

On convening today, however, the house had further to vote on the bill directing adjustment by the Secretary of the Interior of the Red River oil and gas claims before taking up the credits measure.

Consideration of the former was completed last night at the close of the session which although time devoted to the bank tax bill removed practically all possibility of considering all legislation which the rules committee had voted to give privileged status on the floor.

It rested largely with the leaders as to what legislation now would be considered for action by the house after the farm credits bill but the expectation was that a number of these would fail in the senate.

"I'd like to give you senators some advice," said Mr. Hyland politely when the debate was finally concluded. FIREMAN INJURED IN FALL AT CASSETON.

Casseton, N. D., Feb. 28.—Louis Vashaw, a Grand Northern fireman, was badly injured here when a sudden jerk on a train threw him from a caboose platform to the ground, just at the edge of the engine boiler. High snow banks prevented him rolling out of danger, and he was brushed along by the engine. His collar caught on a pitcock, opening it and causing the scalding steam to burn the upper part of his back. His face was bruised and his feet were badly hurt.

President Harding's Plans for Participation in World Court Delayed

Washington, Feb. 28.—Formal consideration of President Harding's proposal for membership in the international court set up by the league of nations apparently came to an end for this session of Congress.

After a conference with President Harding, Chairman Lodge of the foreign relations committee said it was hardly likely that the President would respond before March 4 to the committee request for further data.

HYLAND TELLS SOLONS HOW TO LOSE GOOD BILL.

"How to get a bill you favor killed" was the theme of a brief address delivered in the senate Tuesday by Lieutenant Governor Frank Hyland.

A message of very minor importance was up for consideration but each and every one of a number of senators who favored its passage had been powerfully moved by the spirit to arise and point out at some length its great measures.

"I'd like to give you senators some advice," said Mr. Hyland politely when the debate was finally concluded. "I've been in this legislature for a good term, and here's one thing I've learned: the more a bill is talked, the more thoroughly it gets killed. The secretary will now read the next bill of the calendar."

And the secretary did.

BANKING COMMITTEE HEAD HITS MINORITY IN HOUSE FOR ACTION IN OPPOSING BANK MEASURE

Rep. Carr Declares that Guaranty Fund Commission, if Responsible for All State Banks, Ought to Have Something to Say About the Way They Are Conducted.

BILL IS ADVANCED

RESOLUTION FAILS. There will be no constitutional amendment submitted to the people providing for a $7,500,000 bond issue to pay off depositors of closed banks. The resolution failed in the house Monday night. An effort was made to reconsider it late yesterday. It failed. The "climber motion" then was applied, preventing further reconsideration.

Severe criticism of the Nonpartisan minority in the house of representatives for opposing senate bill regarding the Guaranty Fund Commission to deal with banks, was voiced by Rep. John Carr, chairman of the house banking committee, during debate on the measure, in which the house defeated the bill by a vote of 30 to 20.

Explaining the bill, on which there is a divided report Rep. Carr said it substituted the manager of the Bank of North Dakota for the examiner on the Guaranty Fund Commission, the purpose being to let the state examiner would not be the position of reviewing his own permits the Guaranty Fund Commission to employ inspectors of banks. It provides that if the state examiner finds a bank is insolvent the bank may be kept open under receiver's protection deposits retained. Carr order has been issued the examiner, prohibits banks from carrying their deposits in banks owned by the state of North Dakota. Any bank organized after March 1st, 1923, shall have at least two per cent of its capital in the state of North Dakota. The Guaranty Fund; defines definitely what deposits shall come under the guaranty act.

"This bill everyone should support," Carr said. "If you are going to have a guaranty fund law and the fund responsible for the failure of the banks of the state, you ought to have something to say about how the banks are run. I am unable to understand the minority in opposing this measure as this."

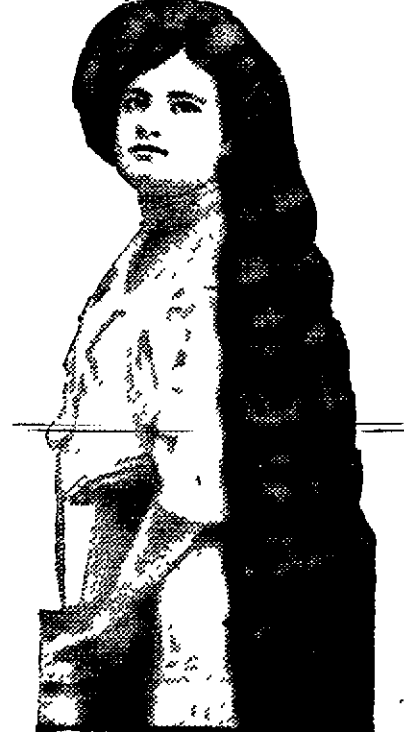

Albhis There, She Says. Mrs. Minnie Craig pointed out what she said were meaningless sections in the act.

There are at least three sections, which are exhibits for past failures in supervision of banks," she said. She criticized the guaranty fund commission, saying it had placed deposits in banks which closed after the deposits were placed in them.

Rep. Maddock, Nonpartisan, said that at present the state examiner adopted the policy of allowing some banks to remain open under special restrictions such as is proposed in the bill, and that "the bank examiner

SWEDEN HAS UNIQUE PLAN OF STATE LOANS

Stockholm, Feb. 28.—By a unique system of state loans to persons who desire to establish their own homes, the government of Sweden has contributed 120,000,000 crowns or $32,000,000 to the building of a total of 30,000 homes since 1905, according to calculations made by the Swedish Department of Agriculture.
The "erna home," literally, "own home," movement in Sweden has proved a blessing in enabling young people, and others with limited means, to settle on small farms and to erect cozy dwelling through the help of money loaned at low interest and on easy terms of repayment. Several thousand city homes also have been acquired through the same plan. While the money is loaned by the government, the actual administration of funds is done by associations organized for this purpose, which are responsible for interest payments and amortization.
It is reported that the money thus invested by the government has not only been of immense value in establishing social solidity and contentment in Sweden, but has also brought good economic results through the rise in real estate values since the years before the war.

Use Polarine THE PERFECT MOTOR OIL Made in Five Grades

It outstrips any lubricant on the market in maintaining its body through any extreme of temperature. Its elasticity and adhesiveness cause a perfect seal and complete lubrication at all motor speeds and temperatures.

Don't fool yourself into fancied security, by thinking, "Oh, the oil I'm using works all right— why bother to change? It's just as good!" There is no "just as good", or even "second best" lubrication. There is one right lubricant for your car. It is specified in the Chart. When you do not use this lubricant, you fail to get the maximum of economy, efficiency and saving of wear on your engine. Change your motor oil every 500 miles—it is the essence of economy.

Remember the resources — the experience — the scientific experts of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) are behind every gallon of Polarine sold. This means maintained quality — at all seasons, in all temperatures — and everywhere throughout 10 Middle Western States.

VITAL STATISTICS

Article 13, chapter 5, compiled laws North Dakota 1913, provide that a Bureau of Vital Statistics be established at the Capital of the State. This law has never been enforced.

The collection and compilation of vital statistics is essential to the efficient administration of public health laws.

This collection and compilation could be satisfactorily done at the State Capital with less expense than is attached to the present unsatisfactory and unreliable system.

The Governor has the prerogative and privilege of appointing a State Health Officer. This appointment has to be confirmed by the Senate.

If the Governor appoints a Health Officer who will maintain a Bureau of Vital Statistics at the State Capital, one of the most important functions of the State Board of Health can be satisfactorily carried out.

The Governor being responsible for the appointment of an efficient State Health Officer and for the satisfactory performance of his duties, should not be hampered in any way in his choice.

This is an important issue for better health methods in the state. The Association of Commerce can well cooperate with the administration in the matter and secure through voluntary and outside aid if necessary, the establishment here of the bureau provided by law and too long a dead letter on the statute books because of past neglect.

If North Dakota is to be a part of the registration area of the federal department an adequate system of vital statistics must be kept.

Now is the time to extend the necessary assistance and aid.

YOUR "FRONT"

What impression do you make on other people—particularly when you are introduced to strangers? And what is your attitude or "front" in trying to get something you want?

Here's a tip along that line, from Clemenceau. He pauses in a speech and says: "I will tell you that I am rather timid—slightly."

Judging from the arguments he starts, "slightly" is right. But powerfully effective on an audience is Clemenceau's confidential admission that he feels a trifle timid. In this age of "rush-em-off-their-feet" aggressiveness, timidity and shyness are rare qualities.

As in Clemenceau's case, they appeal as a craving for affection, for attention, for respect.

While shyness is rare among the bulk of people, it is becoming quite the fashion among the shrewd and cunning, to affect an air of modesty and meekness.

Once the speaker forcefully thumped his fist on the table and declared, "I tell you so-and-so and I know what I'm talking about."

The same speaker now says, in effect: "My great reputation for wisdom probably is an over-estimate of my humble self. But, from all I can learn after patient and thorough investigation, it seems to me," etc., etc.

The psychology of this is that it appeals to reason—and to the hearer's vanity, by deluding him into the belief that he is asked to pass judgment.

The "know-it-all" attitude, backed by "rush-em-off-their-feet" tactics, breeds resentment and even disdain. Salesmen, first to sense a change in popular psychology, are shifting from aggressiveness to an oily, cunning "approach" to what they're after.

In courting a woman, a man makes faster progress by gentleness, smooth tact and the shrinking that attracts sympathy. As soon as a man falls in love, he begins moaning to his lady-love, that he has had a sad past, more trouble than his share, and that no one seems to understand and sympathize with him.

The English are notoriously successful in diplomacy—because they handle situations with velvet gloves and soft words, more effective than bluster, threats and force.

You cannot get sympathy by waving an ax. But you can get it by pointing mournfully to the ax and admitting that you dread to use it. Lincoln said something about molasses catching more flies than vinegar. He should have added, "than a fly-swatter."

LASTING

A church built 120 years ago at Grimsville, Pa., was put together so solidly that a wrecking crew is unable to tear it down. It is blown up by dynamite.

They built to last, in the old days when timbers were hewn with an ax and wooden pegs were used instead of expensive iron nails. Modern construction is frail, compared with those old buildings. All for the best. Improvements come rapidly, a new building in our century soon is out-of-date. It reflects our transitory existence, living for the present, soon tearing down to make way for something new and better. If we wanted to, we could build many times as strong as the old church at Grimsville. The new and improved is preferable to the old and enduring.

Future homes will be large flying machines.

ANCIENT

Temple of the Moon, believed to be the oldest building on earth, is uncovered by scientific diggers at Ur on the lower Euphrates River. It was erected about 7000 years ago, and was used continuously as a church for 4000 years.

King Tut seems very ancient to us, yet here's a building that was about 40 centuries old when he was born. Discovery of the Temple of the Moon is important. It helps confirm the scientific belief that the first civilization was along the Euphrates. Somewhere in that vicinity probably was the cradle of the human race—though the Chinese claim that their authentic history dates back at least 22,000 years.

A NATURAL ANAESTHETIC

Dr. Archard of Marseilles after extensive study of the practice of the fakirs and miracle performers of north Africa, particularly the tribe of Alssaous, who drive nails through their hands or even into their skulls without evincing any sign of pain, has captured their secret—a principle of nature hitherto either unrevealed or disregarded.

In studying the methods of these fakirs it was observed that before attempting their feats they indulged in preliminary exercises, which it was at first thought were merely meant to impress their audiences but which now appear to be an indispensable preparation for their performances. The fakir would first take deep breathing exercises, his respiration increasing in rapidity and in depth until finally he reached a state bordering on what appears to be frenzy but is really what may be described as a trance.

The trance, it was discovered, was not feigned but actual. Once he has reached this stage the fakir is ready for his stunts. He will drive a nail through his palm or through the flesh of his upper arm, and in some instances he has been known to drive a nail into his skull, in each case without drawing blood and without giving any evidence of pain.

At first it was believed that the fakir was merely hardened by exercise in preliminary exercises, which it was at first thought were merely meant to impress their audiences but which now appear to be an indispensable preparation for their performances. The fakir would first take deep breathing exercises, his respiration increasing in rapidity and in depth until finally he reached a state bordering on what appears to be frenzy but is really what may be described as a trance.

Drawing his own conclusion from these performances, Dr. Archard began a series of experiments in minor operations, all confirming the fact that deep breathing exercises before the operation, properly conducted, acted as an anesthetic. In the French magazine Savoir Dr. Henry Reynis gives an account of an operation performed on him by Dr. Archard by this method. The operation in this instance was the extraction of an inferior molar, the root of which was infected. Dr. Archard asked his patient to begin by taking a few deep breaths, then ordered the acceleration of the breathing. Dr. Reynis followed these instructions and at the end of one minute began to feel dizzy. At that moment the extraction was performed, rapidly and dexterously, without the patient feeling any pain whatever—American Medicine.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The Twins started toward Jack Straw's palace in Mix-Up Land.

They could see it plainly on the other side of a wide river. It was made of dominoes all over, like bricks, and the dominoes were black, with round, white spots on them. The chimney was made of dominoes and the doors and steps and walks and fences were dominoes, so the place was as spotty as a calico cow or a tiger-lily, or a speckled hen, or a bad apple.

"We'll wish ourselves over the river in our Magic Shoes," said Nancy. "We had better start at once."

"All right," said Nick, picking up the basket of eggs the Cut-Out Lady had given him.

So they said: "Oh, little Green Shoes, No time can we lose."

Please give us a ride To the stream's other side." And as usual, the good little shoes lifted them up and started across the river, but the river began to grow wider and wider and wider when they reached it.

It got so wide it looked like a sea and they were in sight on either side. But one thing the Twins noticed just before the land disappeared, it was Jack Straw standing on the bank, and turning the ring on his left thumb as fast as he could turn it.

"It's magic!" cried Nick. "That old Jack Straw won't let us get over. As long as he turns his ring the river will get wider and wider."

Suddenly Nancy thought of the basket of eggs. "Break one of the eggs, Nick!" she said quickly.

"Of course!" declared Nick. "That's what they're for." So he reached in and got an egg and cracked it on the basket handle. Instantly a whole trail of sand poured out and down into the river and filled it up.

Nancy and Nick came safely to the ground and started to walk toward Jack Straw's house again.

PINCHOT PROMISES "BLACK HORSE TROOP" WILL TEACH U. S. HOW TO FIGHT BOOZE

BY EDWARD THERIY

NEA Service Staff Writer

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 28.—A dark cloud hangs over the bootlegging industry of Pennsylvania.

The cloud is the "Black Horse Troop," Pennsylvania's famous state constabulary.

Pennsylvania has no prohibition enforcement law and Pinchot, just become governor, is jamming one through the legislature.

He calls it the "boozie bill" and it has teeth in it. With this law back of him and the picturesque, hard-bitten, hard-boiled fighting men of the constabulary to enforce it, he figures the state will be dry before the year ends.

"The campaign is mapped out—in military fashion," says Major Lynn G. Adams, commander of the constabulary. "We'll give 'em something they never saw before."

Adams looks as if he means it. He has a marble-like jaw, a flinty eye and a hard voice. He makes a good team for the soft-spoken, though vigorous acting, Pinchot.

"Booze was the first plank in my platform," said Pinchot. "The state is rotten with booze, but it can be cleaned up. We're going to show the federal government how—with a law that bites and the constabulary to make the teeth marks show."

"Pennsylvania has a license law that is a joke. It practically legalizes liquor in spite of the eighteenth amendment. We're going to show the federal government how—with a law that bites and the constabulary to make the teeth marks show."

THE KISS OF JUDAS

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
SIR NORMAN GREYER, formerly of Scotland Yard, is devoting his time to tracking down an arch criminal of many disguises, known to him as "MICHAEL SAVERS."

JANET FOALE, maid in Sayers' estate in England, is in love with her master. She shoots down a police officer who had tracked Michael to his abode.

Sayers, known at the golf club as Mr. Stanfield, plays a game with Sir Norman during which the suspicions of the latter are aroused as to Mr. Stanfield's real identity.

After a three-months' vacation, Greyer meets Stanfield in a hotel lobby. An insurance company asks Sir Norman to question a South American widow, living at the hotel, regarding a policy of a hundred thousand pounds carried on her remarkable record of pearls.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY.
"Have you had any intimation of thieves working in this neighborhood?" I asked him.

"None whatever," he replied. "I will perfectly frank with you, I am not an ordinary robbery of which we are afraid. For some reason or other, our inquiry department has formed a dubious opinion of Mrs. De Mendoza herself."

"I see," remarked. "You are afraid of a fraud?"
"Precisely. Directly we received the letter from the hotel detective, we rang up the manager here. All that we could learn was that the illness was altogether unexpected, and that the man had been compelled to go home at a moment's notice. In reply to our request that a trained detective might take his place, the manager assured us that they considered nothing of the sort necessary. No robbery of jewels had ever taken place from this hotel, and they considered their night porter fully competent to watch over the interests of their guests."

PATTERNS CENTURIES OLD BORROWED FOR MILADY'S COMING SEASON'S STYLES

Designs for the coming season's printed silks have been borrowed from the artistry of many a craftsman long centuries dead.

Egyptian, Persian, Cashmere, Bokhara and Paisley patterns are displayed on the same counters. Some are subtle harmonies in two or three subdued shades; some are riot of color unabashed.

Next in smartness to printed silks come matelasse fabrics, not only of silk but also of wool crepe and silk combined, or of pure silk combined with fiber.

The broadened pattern may be a stripe, a small geometric design, or a sprawling all over effect, and it is almost sure to be so heavy as to resemble thick embroidery.

The settings of Spain and Louisiana are beautiful and picturesque enhanced by photography that is in itself commendable.

HOW TO MAKE ONE SLIP DO FOR MANY DRESSES

Costume slips have almost become costumes in themselves. Blouses are so loose of line that a trimly-fitting underwaist, to which skirts may be attached, is needed to give the proper swing to the skirt.

So the slip—really a dress skirt with plain bodice—has become more and more elaborate.

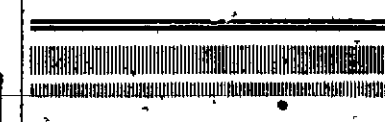

Many show side drapes and tunics, or wide flounces. Some are made in wrap-around style, with circular pleats.

The idea is that one slip may be used with several blouses, since it's fashionable to have skirt and blouse of different fabrics.

Celebrate Feast of Purim Mar. 1

The Feast of Purim, celebrated in the Synagogues on Thursday evening, March 1st and Friday morning, March 2nd, is a minor holiday of the Jewish calendar that has enjoyed an anomalous career.

Purim, founded on the book of Esther, commemorates the events described in that Biblical narrative. According to that account the Jews of Persia were fated to be destroyed. The date was set for this terrible execution of men, women and children in the twelfth month of the Hebrew calendar, to satisfy the villainous designs of Haman, an arch-enemy of the Jews. Through the miraculous intervention of Esther, Queen of Persia, selected by King Ahasuerus as his wife, and Mordechai, her cousin, the Jews of this ancient Persian realm were spared this murderous destruction.

From very early times the reading of the Book of Esther has been enjoined in the Synagog on the morning of Purim and on the eve of the feast also. Women were obliged to attend this reading, since it was a woman, Queen Esther, through whom the Jews had obtained a wondrous redemption. The book could be read in any language intelligible to the audience. When read in the original it was chanted for the most part in tones different from that used in reading the weekly pericopes from the Pentateuch.

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL THEATRE

In a screen version of "Enter Madame," the stage success which ran forty-five weeks in New York a season or so ago, Clara Kimball Young will next appear. The opening exhibition of this Metro picture will be given tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre.

A fittingly elaborate production has been given this adaptation of the play by Gilda Varese and Dolly Byrne, it is understood.

The story concerns that part of the life of Lisa Della Robbia, a grand opera star, which follows her discovery that her husband, whom she loves for all her neglect of him imposed by her career, is desirous of divorcing her. Elliott Dexter will be seen as the husband and Louise Dresser as the other corner of the triangle. Harry Garson produced "Enter Madame."

The direction is by Wallace Worley, the adaptation by Frank Beresford and the photography by L. William O'Connell.

THE ELTINGE

"Thorns and Orange Blossoms" a picturization of Bertha M. Clay's novel and stage play has been made into a moving picture which is being shown at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday.

The original story represents one of the most famous pieces of fiction ever written. The picture however does not rely upon the book's reputation but stands solidly by itself as a great film. The cast is as suitable and capable as could possibly have been found.

Kenneth Harlan plays the part of the young American whose affections are divided between a dashing Spanish prima donna and a little American girl. The fascinating foreigner and her lovely rival are por-

HOW TO MAKE ONE SLIP DO FOR MANY DRESSES

Costume slips have almost become necessities in themselves.

Blouses are so loose of line that a trimly-fitting underwaist, to which skirts may be attached, is needed to give the proper swing to the skirt.

So the slip—really a dress skirt with plain bodice—has become more and more elaborate.

Many show side drapes and tunics, or wide flounces. Some are made in wrap-around style, with circular pleats.

The idea is that one slip may be used with several blouses, since it's fashionable to have skirt and blouse of different fabrics.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

VITAL STATISTICS
Article 13, chapter 5, compiled laws North Dakota 1913, provide that a Bureau of Vital Statistics be established at the Capital of the State. This law has never been enforced. The collection and compilation of vital statistics is essential to the efficient administration of public health laws.

This collection and compilation could be satisfactorily done at the State Capital with less expense than is attached to the present unsatisfactory and unreliable system.

The Governor has the prerogative and privilege of appointing a State Health Officer. This appointment has to be confirmed by the Senate.

If the Governor appoints a Health Officer who will maintain a Bureau of Vital Statistics at the State Capital, one of the most important functions of the State Board of Health can be satisfactorily carried out.

The Governor being responsible for the appointment of an efficient State Health Officer and for the satisfactory performance of his duties, should not be hampered in any way in his choice.

This is an important issue for better health methods in the state. The Association of Commerce can well cooperate with the administration in the matter and secure through voluntary and outside aid if necessary, the establishment here of the bureau provided by law and too long a dead letter on the statute books because of past neglect.

If North Dakota is to be a part of the registration area of the federal department an adequate system of vital statistics must be kept.

Now is the time to extend the necessary assistance and aid.

YOUR "FRONT"
What impression do you make on other people—particularly when you are introduced to strangers? And what is your attitude or "front" in trying to get something you want?

Here's a tip along that line, from Clemenceau. He pauses in a speech and says: "I will tell you that I am rather timid—slightly."

Judging from the arguments he starts, "slightly" is right. But powerfully effective on an audience is Clemenceau's confidential admission that he feels a trifle timid. In this age of "rush-em-off-their-feet" aggressiveness, timidity and shyness are rare qualities.

As in Clemenceau's case, they appeal as a craving for affection, for attention, for respect.

While shyness is rare among the bulk of people, it is becoming quite the fashion among the shrewd and cunning, to affect an air of modesty and meekness.

Once the speaker forcefully thumped his fist on the table and declared, "I tell you so-and-so and I know what I'm talking about."

The same speaker now says, in effect: "My great reputation for wisdom probably is an over-estimate of my humble self. But, from all I can learn after patient and thorough investigation, it seems to me," etc., etc.

The psychology of this is that it appeals to reason—and to the hearer's vanity, by deluding him into the belief that he is asked to pass judgment.

The "know-it-all" attitude, backed by "rush-em-off-their-feet" tactics, breeds resentment and even disdain.

Salesmen, first to sense a change in popular psychology, are shifting from aggressiveness to an oily, cunning "approach" to what they're after.

In courting a woman, a man makes faster progress by gentleness, smooth tact and the shrinking that attracts sympathy. As soon as a man falls in love, he begins moaning to his lady-love, that he has had a sad past, more trouble than his share, and that no one seems to understand and sympathize with him.

The English are notoriously successful in diplomacy—because they handle situations with velvet gloves and soft words, more effective than bluster, threats and force.

You cannot get sympathy by waving an ax. But you can get it by pointing mournfully to the ax and admitting that you dread to use it. Lincoln said something about molasses catching more flies than vinegar. He should have added, "than a fly-swatter."

LASTING
A church built 120 years ago at Grimsville, Pa., was put together so solidly that a wrecking crew is unable to tear it down. It is blown up by dynamite.

They built to last, in the old days when timbers were hewn with an ax and wooden pegs were used instead of expensive iron nails. Modern construction is frail, compared with those old buildings. All for the best. Improvements come rapidly, a new building in our century soon is out-of-date. It reflects our transitory existence, living for the present, soon tearing down to make way for something new and better. If we wanted to, we could build many times as strong as the old church at Grimsville. The new and improved is preferable to the old and enduring.

Future homes will be large flying machines.

ANCIENT

Temple of the Moon, believed to be the oldest building on earth, is uncovered by scientific diggers at Ur on the lower Euphrates River. It was erected about 7000 years ago, and was used continuously as a church for 4000 years.

King Tut seems very ancient to us, yet here's a building that was about 40 centuries old when he was born. Discovery of the Temple of the Moon is important. It helps confirm the scientific belief that the first civilization was along the Euphrates. Somewhere in that vicinity probably was the cradle of the human race—though the Chinese claim that their authentic history dates back at least 22,000 years.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

A NATURAL ANAESTHETIC

Dr. Archard of Marquette after extensive study of the practice of the fakirs and miracle performers of North Africa, particularly the tribe of Aissouas, who drive nails through their hands or even into their skulls without evincing any sign of pain, has captured their secret—a principle of nature hitherto either unrevealed or disregarded.

In studying the methods of these fakirs it was observed that before attempting their feats they indulged in preliminary exercises, which it was at first thought were merely meant to impress their audiences but which now appear to be an indispensable preparation for their performances. The fakir would first take deep breathing exercises, his respiration increasing in rapidity and in depth until finally he reached a state bordering on what appear to be frenzy but is really what may be described as a trance.

The trance, it was discovered, was not feigned but true. Once he has reached this stage the fakir is ready for his stunts. He will drive a nail through his palm or through the flesh of his upper arm, and in some instances he has been known to drive a nail into his skull, in each case without drawing blood and without giving any evidence of pain.

It was believed that the fakir was merely hardened by experience and training, like our own Indians, to suffer pain without revealing it, but it was soon learned that he really felt no pain at all, that his trance was a form of self-induced anesthesia, and that the preliminary deep breathing exercises were just long enough to permit the particular stunt and then were off without leaving the fakir any the worse for his experience.

Drawing his own conclusions from these performances, Dr. Archard began a series of experiments in minor operations, all confirming the fact that deep breathing exercises before the operation, properly conducted, acted as an anesthetic. In the French magazine Savoir Dr. Henry Reynold gives an account of an operation performed on him by Dr. Archard by this method. The operation in this instance was the extraction of an inferior molar, the root of which was infected. Dr. Archard asked his patient to begin by taking a few deep breaths, then ordering the acceleration of the breathing.

Dr. Reynold followed these instructions and at the end of one minute began to feel dizzy. At that moment the extraction was performed, rapidly and dexterously, without the patient feeling any pain whatever—American Medicine.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The Twins started toward Jack Straw's palace in Mix-Up Land. They could see it plainly on the other side of a wide river. It was made of dominoes all over. Like bricks, and the dominoes were black, with round, white spots on them.

The chimney was made of dominoes and the doors and steps and walks and fences were dominoes, so the place was as spotty as a cow or a daisy, or a speckled hen, or a bad apple.

"We'll wish ourselves over the river on our Magic Shoes," said Nancy. "We had better start at once."

"All right," said Nick, picking up the basket of eggs the Cut-Out Lady had given him.

So they said.

"Oh, little Green Shoes. No time can we lose. Please give us a ride."

To the stream's other side. And as usual, the good little shoes lifted them up and started across the river, but the river began to grow wider and wider, and wider when they reached it.

No land was in sight on either side. But one thing the Twins spied just before the land disappeared. It was Jack Straw standing on the bank, and turning the ring on his left thumb as fast as he could turn it.

"It's magic!" cried Nick. "That old Jack Straw won't let us pass. As long as he turns his ring the river will get wider and wider."

Suddenly Nancy thought of the basket of eggs. "Break one of the eggs, Nick!" she said quickly.

"Of course!" declared Nick. "That's what they're for." So he reached in and got an egg and cracked it on the basket handle. A whole trail of mud, and sand poured out and down into the river and filled it up.

Nancy and Nick came safely to the ground and started to walk toward Jack Straw's house again.

BY EDWARD THERREY

NEA Service Staff Writer

Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 28.—A dark cloud hangs over the bootlegging industry of Pennsylvania.

The cloud is the "Black Horse Troop"—Pennsylvania's famous state constabulary—the powerful weapon Governor Gifford Pinchot is using to wipe out the worst of our states.

"Military police can do it where regular agents can't," Pinchot has said.

Pennsylvania has no prohibition enforcement law and Pinchot, just become governor, is jamming one through the legislature. He calls it his "house bill" and it has teeth in it. With this law back of him and the military police, he is ready to enforce it, he figures the state will be dry before the year ends.

"The campaign is being put in military fashion," says Major Lynn G. Adams, commander of the constabulary. "We'll give 'em something they never saw before."

Adams looks as if he means it. He has a marble-like jaw, a flinty eye and a hard voice. He makes a good team for the soft-spoken, though vigorous, Governor Pinchot.

"Booze was the first plank in my platform," said Pinchot. "The state is rotten with booze, but it can be cleaned up. We're going to show the federal government how, with a law that bites and the constabulary to make the teeth marks show."

"Pennsylvania has a license law that is a joke. It practically legalizes liquor in spite of the eighteenth amendment because it recognizes the saloon. License court yearly grants licenses for from $300 to $500—presumably for the sale of neutral spirits. It makes Pennsylvania a laughing stock."

The queer paradox of saloon prohibition is illustrated in the fact that judges in several counties have solemnly "withheld" licenses until the legislature disposes of the Pinchot booze bill.

Pennsylvania has 200 breweries. It has many bonded warehouses. Bootleg liquor is manufactured in such great quantities that saloons have had to be dug up to clear marsh congestion.

"The constabulary is an emergency police force," said Major Adams. "We call booze an emergency crime along with murder, lynching, etc. One out of every 10 cases our men catch last year had something to do with booze. We had 1401 liquor law violations out of 14,216 arrests but we had no enforcement law to back us, and the courts were not with us."

Major Adams has 370 men in the constabulary. Most of them are mounted, and some use motorcycles and automobiles. They are mostly ex-army men. The Pennsylvania constabulary is 17 years old, is the most feared arm of the law in the state, and is the model after which the constabulary of New York state was patterned.

Home Brew's a Crime, Too

BY NEA SERVICE.
Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 28. Even home brew recipes fall under the ban of Governor Pinchot's new booze law.

It will be a crime to advertise, manufacture, sell, offer for sale or possess for sale any utensil, contrivance, machine, preparation, compound, tablet, capsule, confection, substance, formula, direction or recipe designed or intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

Surely of the other teeth in the law includes fines of $100 to $500 or imprisonment up to three years or both, confiscation of vehicles carrying liquor, and padlocking of property used for the sale or manufacture of liquor.

THE KISS OF JUDAS
BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1932, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arranged by NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.
SIR NORMAN GREYES, formerly of "Shodding Yard," is devoting his time to tracking down an earth criminal of many disguises known to him as

MICHAEL SAYERS.
JANET FOALE, maid in Sayers' cottage in England, is in love with her master. She shoots down a police officer who had tracked Michael to his abode.

Sayers, known at the golf club as Mr. Stanfield, plays a game with Sir Norman during which the suspicions of the latter are aroused as to Mr. Stanfield's real identity.

After a three-months' vacation, Greyes meets Stanfield in a hotel lobby. An insurance company asks Sir Norman to question a South American widow, living at the hotel, regarding a policy of a hundred thousand pounds carried on her remarkable rope of pearls.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY.
"Have you had any intimation of thieves working in this neighborhood?" I asked him.

"None whatever," he replied. "I will be perfectly frank with you. It is not an ordinary robbery of which we are afraid. For some reason or other, our interior department has formed a dubious opinion of Mrs. De Mendoza herself."

"The idea had already occurred to me, and later in the day I sent up my card to Mrs. De Mendoza and was at once invited to enter her sitting-room. I found her writing letters, simply dressed in a black negligee and wearing the pearls. As she turned and invited me to seat myself, she stirred in my memory a faint suggestion of reminiscence. She listened to the few words with which I introduced myself, and smiled deprecatingly.

"It is true that I am very foolish," she admitted. "But then I have always been a person of superstitions. I have owned my necklace for some years, and I have had it with me in quite lawless places. I have never, however, felt just the same amount of apprehension as I do at the present moment."

"She came over to my side, and without unclasping the necklace, let it rest in my hands. The pearls were all marvelously matched, all of considerable size, and with a milky softness which she pointed out to me as being a proof of their great perfection. As we stood there, necessarily close together, a wisp of her hair touched my forehead. Something in the timbre of her low laugh as she brushed it back induced me to look up. There were qualities about her smile and the peculiar expression of her eyes which gave me, momentarily, a thrill.

"Do you admire my pearls?" she asked softly.

"They are very wonderful," I admitted.

"She moved slowly away. I breathed more easily as the distance increased between us. She looked over her shoulder unexpectedly, and I believe that she realized my sensation. The slight frown passed from her forehead. She was obviously more content."

"Tell me how you propose to guard my treasures, Sir Norman?" she inquired as she sank into an easy chair. "Shall you stand behind my chair at dinner, disguised as a waiter, and lie on my mat at night? It gives one quite a shivery sensation to think of such espionage!"

"Believe me," I assured her, "I understand that you send your pearls down every night to the hotel safe."

"I have always done so," she answered. "Do you think it would be better to keep them up here? Will you promise to sit in this easy-chair, with a revolver on your knee, all night, if I do so?"

"Not for the world," I declared. "The hotel safe is much the better place."

"I am glad to hear your decision," she said with a slight smile. "I should sleep very little if I thought that my pearls were near me and that you were sitting here on guard. The idea would be disturbing."

"One cannot guard against miracles," I observed. "But I think you can make your mind quite easy about the necklace. If you should need me at any time, the number of my room is Four-thirty-two."

"On this floor?"

"Tell me," she asked, a little abruptly as I rose to take my leave, "who was the man with whom you were talking last night in the lounge—a slim, middle-aged man with a very hard face? I am always seeing him in the lift."

"A man I know scarcely anything of," I replied. "His name, I believe, is Stanfield. I once played golf with him down at Woking."

"Stanfield?" she repeated. "Was it in his grounds near Woking that a murder was committed—a policeman was found shot there?"

I nodded. "I was playing with Mr. Stanfield at the time," I told her. "And the murderer was never discovered."

"Never!"

"I wonder you didn't take an interest in the case yourself," she remarked.

"Of did," I told her.

"She made a little grimace. "My fears for my necklace are reawakened," she declared. "Surely it ought to have been an easy task for a clever man like you, one who used to be called a really great detective, to discover the murderer?"

"It is beyond my powers to bring him to justice, at any rate," I replied. "There are many criminals walking about today, of whose guilt the police are perfectly well aware. They cannot be arrested, however, for lack of evidence."

"How thrilling!" she murmured. "Will you ask me to dine with you some night and tell me some of your adventures?"

"I shall be happy to do so," I replied. "Meanwhile—"

She accepted my departure a little unwillingly. I am not a vain man; and I felt inclined to wonder at a certain graciousness of attitude on her part which I noted the once during our interview had forced itself upon my notice.

Later, about seven o'clock, a note was brought into my room.

Dear Sir Norman,

A lady and her husband who were dining, have disappointed me. Can you, by any chance, be my guest? If so, let us meet at eight o'clock in the lounge.

Hopefully yours,
Blanche de Mendoza.

I scribbled a line and descended into the lounge that evening, a premonition that life for the next few hours was going to be very interesting indeed.

At eight o'clock, precisely Mrs. De Mendoza came into the lounge. She was wearing a white lace evening dress, with an ermine wrap which hung loosely around her, disclosing the pearls underneath. Her entrance made a mild sensation. Mr. Stanfield, who was seated in his accustomed corner, drinking his cocktail, watched our meeting and departure into the restaurant with obvious surprise.

"The little man was there again who stares at me so much—Mr. Stanfield, I think you called him?" she remarked as we took our places.

I dared say he was surprised to see us together," I said. "I asked him who you were, on the night of my arrival here."

"Why?"

"For the same reason that a great many other people ask the same question," I replied.

"She made a little grimace. "You are determined to pay me no compliments this evening, and I am wearing my favorite gown."

"I admire your taste," I assured her.

"Anything else?"

"You are the best-dressed and the best-looking woman in the room."

"Too impersonal," she complained.

I turned the conversation to the subject of the necklace. The pearls were collected for her, she told me, by her husband, some in India, some in the Malay states, some in Paris, some in Rio. She spoke of him quite frankly—a prosperous fruitbroker who had achieved sudden opulence.

"It was quite as much a change for me as for him," she remarked. "I was a typist in Buenos Aires before we were married. I have known what it is to be poor."

She answered all my questions without reserve, displaying later on much interest in the recounting of such of my adventures as were public property. I began to feel that I had been mistaken with regard to her, that she was really exactly what she seemed—a very wealthy woman of adventurous type, suddenly released from matrimonial obligations and a little uneasy about what to make of her life. We took our coffee in the lounge afterward. In the background my gulfing friend, Mr. Stanfield, was seated, smoking a cigarette in a retired corner, and having the air of studying everyone who passed. (Continued in Our Next Issue.)

A colored boy thought he saw a ghost in a graveyard and started to go elsewhere rapidly. He hadn't gone more than a mile or two before a big white man stuck a gun into his ribs and exclaimed:

"White man," replied the Ethiopian youth. "White man I ain't goin' to nowhere. I'm just goin' FROM where I was at!"

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take out of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets right for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

EVEN "FRANK MERRIWELL" FAILS TO SURPASS MATTY'S ACHIEVEMENTS

CHRISTIE MATHEWSON

Burt L. Standish was turning out the adventures of "Frank Merriwell" years before Factoryville, Pa. became famous in baseball circles. But if Standish had searched the world over for a type to reflect in his hero, he could not have chosen better than Christie Mathewson.

Even Matty's latest achievement—beating disease and becoming a major league magnate—fits in with the Merriwell idea. It marks the fulfillment of an oft-expressed desire, one that even the consuming germ of the white plague could not destroy.

Standish's hero became a national idol for American boyhood through his clean, sportsmanlike efforts and his athletic skill. Matty, through actually living the same life, became the baseball idol of the entire nation, and will forever reign in memory as America's greatest pitcher.

Like "Merriwell," Matty was even a football star in college. He was even greater in this capacity than as a baseball player at Bucknell. He was rated the best punter and drop kicker in the east. And like Merriwell, Matty was a pitcher.

No man living could duplicate his feat of pitching three out of five games in the 1905 world series and winning all three of them by shutting out the Athletics and holding them to 14 hits. Merriwell might do that in fiction.

But even more striking is Matty's resemblance to the Tip Top hero in his dogged fighting that overcame every obstacle.

"Big Six" pitcher for the Giants for 15 seasons. In that time he pitched more games than any other National League twirler has ever done. Thirteen years he won 20 or more games. He participated in more world series games than any other pitcher.

Matty did this because of his brain. Because of his ability to impartially judge himself, see his faults and correct them.

Three years after he went with McGraw, the old arm weakened. Matty developed a slow ball and slow curve, and dazzled the league five years more. Another slump came—but the bushes didn't claim Mathewson. He worked until he perfected his fadeaway ball, and with this and his marvelous control he became even greater than before.

Merriwell was always glad to teach kids. Matty never tired of helping rookies.

Then came the war and, like Merriwell, Matty enlisted, and went to France. Flu and gas brought on tuberculosis. "Big Six" was pronounced dying. Thirteen months in bed did not daunt his spirit. Neither did he weaken in the rest of his fight. Like Frank Merriwell in a similar position, he won.

Yale Can Boast Of Golfing Record

Three National Amateur Championships Credited To The Blue

By Billy Evans

Golf is getting a great play as a college sport.

It won't be long before a golf course is as essential to the department of physical education at the various big universities as a stadium.

Just at present Yale, Harvard and Princeton are rather hogging the amateur situation in golfing circles with Jesse Sweetser, national amateur champion; Bobby Jones and Rudy Knepper.

As a matter of fact, the 1922 event at Brookline was very much of a college affair. In the semi-finals were Rudy Knepper of Princeton versus Chick Evans, late of Northwestern, while Bobby Jones of Harvard was pitted against Jesse Sweetser of Yale.

Yale, which has fared none too well of late years in football, and met with only fair success in basketball, can certainly point to its golfing status with pride.

Yale Strong in Golf

In the golf game Yale turns 'em out young. Three amateur championships are credited to representatives of the Blue.

At 19 years of age, Robert A. Gardner, then a student at Yale, won at Wheaton in 1909. He later duplicated the feat by finishing out in front at Detroit in 1915.

Last year Jesse Sweetser, 20 years of age, once more put Yale to the front in golf by winning from one of the classiest fields ever entered in the national amateur.

Sweetser, in winning the national amateur at Brookline last year, gave a remarkable exhibition of golf and broke a long-standing record. He required only 153 holes to dispose of his five rivals—the least number required to win since the establishment of the 36-hole route for championship play.

Equals Another Record

In addition the records show that Sweetser also equaled a record held by Jerome Travers, made in 1913, neither player being forced to go beyond the 34th hole to dispose of any of their opponents.

Because of his remarkable play in winning the national amateur, the work of Sweetser will be watched with much interest this year.

Any player who can dispose of such formidable opponents as Willie Hunter, Jesse Guilford, Bobby Jones and Chick Evans in consecutive rounds, must be classed as a sterling golfer. That is the trick Sweetser turned at Brookline.

New York, Feb. 28.—"Manager Miller Huggins insisted that he be provided with a veteran left hander. That is why the deal was made with Boston for Pennock."

That is the explanation of Secretary Barrows' deal in which the Yankees got much the best of the bargain.

Branch Rickey Strong For Collegians; Digs Up Many "Rah! Rah!" Stars

When a fellow has a hobby it is hard to tear it away from him. There is Branch Rickey, who was baseball coach for the University of Michigan long before the manager of the Cardinals, and a hobby with Rickey is college ball players.

A brief sketch over his career shows that he does not believe the bridge between the college field and the major league circuit is too long to cover.

On the 1923 Cardinals are found Pitcher Duce of the University of Texas, Pitcher Stuart of Ohio State and Catcher Harry McCurdy of the University of Illinois. Catcher Harry Vick, with the University of Illinois last season, snared by Rickey last summer, has just been farmed to a minor league club by Rickey.

Johnny Lavan, a big league shortstop for 10 years, now with the Cardinals, was with Rickey at the University of Michigan. And let us not overlook the distinguished George Sisler, who hopped from the Michigan frat houses to the American League. Farther back, there is Derrill Pratt, who agreed to join the St. Louis Browns while attending the University of Alabama.

Ernest Koob, a kid southpaw, who was a sensation for two years in the American League, was plucked by Rickey from Kalamazoo University. Wayne Wright, at present a member of the St. Louis Browns' staff, was found by Rickey at Ohio State when he was business manager of the Browns in 1916.

While major league phenoms also grow in minor league fields Rickey is one big league manager who does not let his eyes miss the collegiate territory.

elimination series, is the plan arranged. All colleges have been invited to meet here in March to arrange the big series.

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe college, is behind the idea. It follows the lines of his successful basketball tournaments.

"College baseball in the south is doomed to pass out unless something is done," says Dr. Jacobs. "With the professional season starting at the time college seasons get under way, public interest is shifted from the campus. Teams rarely make expenses on the road, and many have abandoned trips altogether.

"Through a gigantic tournament, with several games a day thousands will attend, a financial success will be scored and the real southern college championship will be found."

EVEN "FRANK MERRIWELL" FAILS TO SURPASS MATTY'S ACHIEVEMENTS

CHRISTIE, MATHEWSON

Burt L. Standish was turning out the adventures of "Frank Merriwell" years before Factoryville, Pa. became famous in baseball circles. But if Standish had searched the world over for a type to reflect in his hero, he could not have chosen better than Christie Mathewson.

Even Matty's latest achievement—beating disease and becoming a major league magnate fits in with the Merriwell idea. It marks the fulfillment of an oft-expressed desire, one that even the consuming germ of the white plague could not destroy.

Standish's hero became a national idol for American boyhood through his clean sportsmanlike efforts and his brilliant skill. Matty, then, actually living the same life, became the baseball idol of the entire nation, and will forever reign in memory as America's greatest pitcher.

Like "Merriwell," Matty was a football star in college. He was even greater in this capacity than as a baseball player at Bucknell. He was rated the best punter and drop kicker in the east. And like Merriwell, Matty was a pitcher.

No man living could duplicate his feat of pitching three out of five games more. Another slump came, but the bushes didn't claim Mathewson. He worked until he perfected his fadeaway ball, and with this and his marvelous control he became even greater than before.

Matty was always glad to help rookies. Three years after he went with Metrow—the old arm weakened—Matty developed a slow ball and slow curve, and dazzled the league five years more. Another slump came, but the bushes didn't claim Mathewson. He worked until he perfected his fadeaway ball, and with this and his marvelous control he became even greater than before.

Yale Can Boast Of Golfing Record

Three National Amateur Championships Credited To The Blue

Golf is getting a great play as a college sport.

It won't be long before a golf course is as essential to the department of physical education at the various big universities as a stadium.

Just at present Yale, Harvard and Princeton are rather hogging the amateur situation in golfing circles with Jesse Sweetser, national amateur champion, Bobby Jones and Rudy Knipper.

As a matter of fact, the 1922 event at Brookline was very much of a college affair. In the semi-finals were Rudy Knipper of Princeton versus Chick Evans, late of Northwestern, while Bobby Jones of Harvard was pitted against Jesse Sweetser of Yale.

Yale, which has fared none too well of late year in football, and met with only fair success in basketball, can certainly point to its golfing status with pride.

Yale Strong in Golf

In the golf game Yale turns 'em out young. Three amateur championships are credited to representatives of the Blue.

At 19 years of age, Robert A. Gardner, then a student at Yale, won at Wheaton in 1909. He later duplicated the feat by finishing out in front at Detroit in 1915.

Last year Jesse Sweetser, 20 years of age, once more put Yale to the front in golf by winning from the Blue at Brookline.

Sweetser, in winning the national amateur at Brookline last year, gave a remarkable exhibition of golf and broke a long-standing record. He required only 153 holes to dispose of his five rivals—the least number required to win since the establishment of the 36-hole route for championship play.

Equals Another Record

In addition the records show that Sweetser also equaled a record held by Jerome Travers, made in 1913, neither player being forced to go beyond the 34th hole to dispose of any of their opponents.

Because of his remarkable play in winning the national amateur, the work of Sweetser will be watched with much interest this year.

Any player who can dispose of such formidable opponents as Willie Hunter, Jesse Guilford, Bobby Jones and Chick Evans in consecutive rounds, must be classed as a sterling golfer. That is the trick Sweetser turned at Brookline.

Huggins Demanded Veteran Southpaw—Yankees Landed Pennock

By NEA Service.

New York, Feb. 28.—"Manager Miller Huggins insisted that he be provided with a veteran left hander. That is why the deal was made with Boston for Pennock."

That is the explanation of Secretary Barrows of the deal in which it seems Boston got much the best of the bargain.

McMullan is certainly promising undelivered, giving a chance to play regularly, he should develop fast. Boston must have a third sacker, so McMullan is sure of the chance.

Mattie is a right hander with much "cut." He went good for the Yankees in the spring. Later he showed signs of wavering and from

Branch Rickey Strong For Collegians; Digs Up Many "Rah! Rah!" Stars

When a fellow has a hobby it is hard to tear it away from him. There is Branch Rickey, who was baseball coach for the University of Michigan long before the manager of the Cardinals, and a hobby with Rickey is college ball players.

A brief sketch over his career shows that he does not believe the bridge between the college field and the major league circuit is too long to cover.

On the 1923 Cardinals are found Pitcher Dyer of the University of Texas, Pitcher Stuart of Ohio State and Catcher Harry McCurdy of the University of Illinois—Catcher Harry Vick, with the University of Illinois last season, snared by Rickey last summer, has just been farmed to a minor league club by Rickey.

Johnny Lavan, a big league shortstop for 10 years, now with the elimination series, is the plan arranged. All colleges have been invited to meet here in March to arrange the big series.

Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe college, is behind the idea. It follows the lines of his successful basketball tournaments.

"College baseball in the south is doomed to pass out unless something is done," says Dr. Jacobs. "With the professional season starting at the same college seasons get under way, public interest is shifted from the campus. Teams rarely make expenses on the road, and many have abandoned trips altogether.

"Through a gigantic tournament, with several games a day thousands will attend, a financial success will be scored and the real southern college championship will be found."

An enthusiastic, jolly crowd comprising over 50 North Dakota and Eastern Montana agents for Overland and Willys-Knights automobiles, distributed in this territory by the Lahr Motor Sales company, and members of the Lahr staff were guests of the Lahr Motor company at a banquet at the McKenzie hotel last night.

An orchestra furnished music and collective and individual singing was part of the lively program expected from a bunch of live dealers. The banquet was the crowning and concluding event of the two-days meeting here with representatives from the big Willys-Overland factories and the staff of the Lahr Motor Sales company.

Winners in the quiz contest, for which prizes were awarded by the Lahr Motor sales company were announced as follows: First prize, R. P. Smith, of Sanger; second, Fred Hintz of Mandan; Mrs. Hintz was the youngest member of the entire party.

The master of ceremonies was W. O. Kinscof, factory representative, who came from Toledo, Ohio, especially for the meeting. A number of "pop" talks were made by the dealers, during which they exchanged tips and told of some of the things they had learned about the new models and the big Willys-Overland organization methods of advertising and especially the best way to reach prospective buyers through newspapers.

Stills and Moonshine Are Taken Near Belfield

Fargo, Feb. 28.—Federal agents co-operating with Stark county officials raided three places near Belfield Saturday, seizing three stills, and a quantity of moonshine, according to reports received at prohibition headquarters in Fargo.

Metro and Wassel Dolyniuk, brothers, owning adjacent farms near Belfield, were arrested when agents found stills in operation at both places. Several gallons of moonshine and a quantity of grain mash were found.

While the officers are searching Metro Dolyniuk's house for further evidence, one of the children was dispatched by a back way to the brother's home to give the warning. Dolyniuk then offered to hitch up a team and drive the agents to his brother's place when he was told that they had a warrant for his arrest, also stating that the roads were impassable to a car. Becoming suspicious of the man's generosity two of the agents hurried by auto to the brother's place, arriving just as he was dismantling the still following the warning brought by the child. A still burning a full capacity was found on the kitchen stove at the home of Mrs. Anne Simonow, a widow with eight children, who was found guilty of a similar violation some time ago, according to federal prohibition authorities. A gallon jug of moonshine liquor and a barrel of mash were standing in the kitchen when the officers entered.

LAST HONORS FOR VETERAN

Bowbells, N. D., Feb. 28.—Reposing in its flag draped coffin, the body of John E. Rogers, 80, Civil war veteran, and for many years a resident of this section, was buried with full military honors.

One of the first to enlist in the Union army at the outbreak of the Civil war, Mr. Rogers, who served in both the 10th and 32nd Wisconsin regiments, was with Sherman in his memorable march to the sea. Treasured in his memories of war days, was his recollection of his conversation with President Lincoln.

Four sons and two daughters survive.

DRANK GALLON ALCOHOL; DIES

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 28.—The drinking of a gallon of alcohol is held to be the cause of the death of Tallef Lien, 39, a laborer employed on a farm in Walla township, who died Saturday night at the farm. A coroner's inquest was held and the cause of his death was pronounced as alcoholism.

ENGLISH BUNGALOW FOR $8165

ELEVATION AND PLAN OF SIX-ROOM BUNGALOW DESIGNED BY CURTIS SERVICE BUREAU, CLINTON, IA.

The slight spring of the roof at the eaves, the substantial chimneys and the casements are characteristically English touches on this six-room bungalow. Besides the large living porch, under the main roof, there is a small entry porch near the kitchen, and a sleeping porch opening off the hall, so that it is conveniently reached from each of the three bedrooms.

One enters the living room directly. There is a hearth in one corner. Near it a glazed door leads to the porch.

Old-Fashioned Cupboards
At the right, as one enters the room, are French doors leading to the dining room. Like the living room, the dining room has a group of three casements toward the front. A pair of corner china closets give an additional charm to this cheerful place. It is interesting to know that although these are machine-made, and so-called "stock" items, obtainable at reasonable cost, their design is an exact reproduction of a pair of fine old corner cupboards that are now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The little kitchen is fairly lined with built-in conveniences. In the adjoining rear entry is a broom closet, a nook for the refrigerator, and the basement steps, so that the kitchen is spared much tracking and confusion.

Cross-Ventilation
The sleeping quarters are so arranged that they can be isolated from the rest of the house entirely. The bedrooms are what most housewives would characterize as "just right" in size—neither too large so as to be wasteful of space and labor, nor too small, so as to be crowded. Two of them have cross-ventilation. In fact, the largest of the three has casements on three sides.

Cross-ventilation might be secured in the third room by the use of one of the new bedroom shut doors, which are one of the fine points of modern house-planning. Such doors are in demand for clothes closets, also, as they afford ventilation so much desired where clothing is stored.

Each bedroom is supplied with a generous closet and a built-in chest of trays, not to mention the large store closet in the hall and the linen case near the bathroom.

Curtis Service Bureau, Clinton, Ia., estimate the cost of this home at $8165. This includes heating, wiring, and plumbing, but it may vary slightly in different localities.

Judge William K. Deer, democrat, in the mayoralty election next fall.

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches.

The Mighty Servant
"Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?" Mark 4:41.

Read Mark 4:33-41.
"If we could see the universe as it is, we should undoubtedly see that everything which Jesus did was done according to law."

MEDITATION: Jesus drew upon the great resources of his power to serve the needs of others. The emphasis was not upon the miracle, but upon the spirit of service.

HYMN:
O Thou, whose mighty patience holds
The night and day alike in view,
Thy will our dearest hopes enforce,
O keep us steadfast, patient, true.

PRAYER: O God, by whom the meek are guided in judgment, and light riseth us, in all our doubts and uncertainties, the grace to ask that thou wouldst have us to do; that the spirit of wisdom may save us from all false choices, and that in thy light we may see light, and in thy straight path may not stumble; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction, often at a very rapid rate, and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion should produce a loss of weight, improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of the all troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overeating, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Sufferers suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which comes as a result of the loss of your superfluous fat. The medicinal ingredients I employ do not depend for their reducing power upon starvation diet or tiresome exercise. Taking them, they should produce a loss of weight without you doing anything else.

If you are over stout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

LAHR MOTORS MEETING ENDS WITH BANQUET

Prizes in Quiz Contest Are Awarded to Willys-Overland Agents

An enthusiastic, jolly crowd comprising over 50 North Dakota and Eastern Montana agents for Overland and Willys-Knights automobiles, distributed in this territory by the Lahr Motor Sales company, and members of the Lahr staff were guests of the Lahr Motor company at a banquet at the McKenzie hotel last night.

An orchestra furnished music and collective and individual singing was part of the lively program expected from a bunch of live dealers. The banquet was the crowning and concluding event of the two-days meeting here with representatives from the big Willys-Overland factories and the staff of the Lahr Motor Sales company.

Winners in the quiz contest, for which prizes were awarded by the Lahr Motor sales company were announced as follows: First prize, R. P. Smith, of Sanger; second, Fred Hintz of Mandan; Mrs. Hintz was the youngest member of the entire party.

The master of ceremonies was W. O. Kirschoff, factory representative, who came from Toledo, Ohio, especially for the meeting. A number of "put" talks were made by the dealers, during which they exchanged tips and told of some of the things they had learned about the new models and the big Willys-Overland organization methods of advertising and especially the best way to reach prospective buyers through newspapers.

Stills and Moonshine Are Taken Near Belfield

Fargo, Feb. 28.—Federal agents co-operating with Steele county officials raided three places near Belfield Saturday, seizing three stills and a quantity of moonshine, according to reports received at prohibition headquarters in Fargo.

Metro and Wasele Dolyniuk, brothers, owning adjacent farms near Belfield, were arrested when agents found stills in operation at both places. Several gallons of moonshine and a quantity of grain mash were found.

While the officers are searching Metro Dolyniuk's house for further evidence, one of the children was dispatched by a back way to the brother's home to give the warning. Dolyniuk then offered to hitch up a team and drive the agents to his brother's place when he was told that they had a warrant for his arrest also, stating that the roads were impassable to a car. Becoming suspicious of the man's generosity two of the agents hurried by auto to the brother's place, arriving just as he was dismantling the still following the warning brought by the child.

A still running at full capacity was found on the kitchen stove at the home of Mrs. Anne Simonow, a widow with eight children, who was found guilty of a similar violation some time ago, according to federal prohibition authorities. A gallon jug of moonshine liquor and a barrel of mash were standing in the kitchen when the officers entered.

Bowbells, N. D., Feb. 28.—Reposing in its flag-draped coffin, the body of John E. Rogers, 80, Civil War veteran, and for many years a resident of this section, was buried with full military honors.

One of the first to enlist in the Union army at the outbreak of the Civil war Mr. Rogers, who served in both the 10th and 32nd Wisconsin regiments, was with Sherman in his memorable march to the sea. Treasured in his memories of war days, was his recollection of his conversation with President Lincoln.

Four sons and two daughters survive.

TROUBLES OF CENTRAL TOLD TOROTARY CLUB

The Rotarians entertained a number of guests at their noon-day luncheon today. Among the visitors were J. W. McCullough, agent of the Dunham Lumber Co. of Fryburg, and Rotarians J. D. McGinnis of Valley City; Jerry Bacon of Grand Forks; Otto Karacoss of Toledo, O.; John F. Sullivan of Mandan; J. M. Hanley, president of the Mandan Rotary club, all of whom spoke briefly at the luncheon.

L. S. Craswell, district manager of the Independent Telephone company, brought some of his assistant and telephone operators, who put on a demonstration with the switchboard and other apparatus which is used in the telephone exchange to illustrate the work of the telephone office and show the problems which confront the employees in the office.

A. W. Gussner of the program committee introduced Mr. Craswell and his staff. Reports from Norman Black of the ninth Rotary district indicated that the Bismarck club made a good showing in attendance, being beaten only by Grand Forks and Wapeton.

John L. Larson told of his recent visit to the St. Paul Rotary club as did Jack Whitney who has been attending the St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn. Rotary meeting during his absence from Bismarck.

The club members were much agitated by an anonymous publication as a rival to the highly esteemed but much distrusted Buffalo Horn. Plans are being made for the ladies night which will be observed by the Rotarians March 7, at which time members of the school staff will be guests of the club.

ENGLISH BUNGALOW FOR $8165

The slight spring of the roof at the eaves, the substantial chimneys and the casements are characteristically English touches on this six-room bungalow. Besides the large living porch, under the main roof, there is a small entry porch near the kitchen, and a sleeping porch opening off the hall, so that it is conveniently reached from each of the three bedrooms.

A lot at least 55x60 is needed, whether the porch or the stoop is used for frontage. The living room, dining room living porch, and kitchen are all at the front, and should be the sunniest side.

One enters the living room directly. There is a hearth in one corner. Near it a glazed door leads to the porch.

Old-Fashioned Cupboards At the right, as one enters the room, are French doors leading to the dining room. Like the living room, the dining room has a group of three casements toward the front.

A pair of corner china closets give an additional charm to this cheerful place. It is interesting to know that although these are machine-made, and so-called "stock" items, obtainable at reasonable cost, their design is an exact reproduction of a pair of fine old corner cupboards that are now in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The little kitchen is fairly lined with built-in conveniences. In the adjoining rear entry is a broom closet, a nook for the refrigerator, and the basement steps, so that the kitchen is spared much tracking and confusion.

Cross-Ventilation The sleeping quarters are so arranged that they can be displaced from the rest of the house entirely. The bedrooms are what most housewives would characterize as "just right" in size—neither too large so as to be wasteful of space and labor, nor too small, so as to be crowded. Two of them have cross-ventilation. In fact, the largest of the three has casements on three sides.

Cross-ventilation might be secured in the third room by the use of one of the new bedroom shut doors, which are one of the fine points of modern house-planning. Such doors are in demand for clothes closets, also, as they afford ventilation so much desired where clothing is stored.

Each bedroom is supplied with a generous closet and a built-in chest of trays, not to mention the large store closet in the hall and the linen case near the bathroom.

Curtis Service Bureau, Clinton, Ia., estimate the cost of this home at $8165. This includes heating, wiring, and plumbing, but it may vary slightly in different localities.

When You Catch Cold Rub on Musterole Musterole is easy to apply and it gets in its good work right away. Often it prevents a cold from turning into "flu" or pneumonia. Just apply Musterole with the fingers. It does all the good work of grandmother's mustard plaster without the blister.

Musterole is a clean white ointment made of oil of mustard and other home samples. It is recommended by many doctors and nurses. Try Musterole for sore throat, cold on the chest, rheumatism, lumbago, pleurisy, stiff neck, bronchitis, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back and joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet—colds of all sorts. Seldom fails to deliver results. 35c and 65c jars and tubes; hospital size, $3.00. Better than a mustard plaster.
